Royal Palace

10 min

The Royal Palace was built as a city hall during the Dutch Golden Age in the 17th century. The building became the royal palace of King Louis Napoleon and later of the Dutch Royal House. The palace is located on the west side of Dam Square opposite the War Memorial and next to the Nieuwe Kerk. Most of the year, the Royal Palace is open for visitors with audio guide or pre-booked group tours.

Rijksmuseum

Red Light District

10 min

De Wallen or De Walletpjes is the largest and best known red-light district in Amsterdam. It consists of a network of alleys containing approximately three hundred one-room cabins rented by prostitutes who offer their sexual services from behind a window or glass door, typically illuminated with red lights. These "kamers" are the most visible and typical kind of red light district sex work in Amsterdam and are a large tourist attraction.

Old Church

10 min

The 800-year-old Oude Kerk ("old church") is Amsterdam's oldest building and oldest parish church, founded around 1213. It stands in De Wallen, now Amsterdam's main red-light district. The floor consists entirely of gravestones . The reason for this is that the church was built on a cemetery.

New Church

10 min

The Nieuwe Kerk (New Church) isn't really brand new. It is a 15th-century church, located on Dam Square, next to the Royal Palace . It was built after the Old Church, that became too small for the growing city population, that explains the name. The Nieuwe Kerk is no longer used for church services but is used as an exhibition space.

Canal district & Houseboats

10 min

Amsterdam has more than one hundred kilometers of canals, about 90 islands and 1,500 bridges. The three main canals, Herengracht , Prinsengracht , and Keizersgracht , dug in the 17th century during the Dutch Golden Age, form concentric belts around the city, known as the Grachtengordel . The most exciting feature of the canals are the houseboats. In the beginning houseboats were a way to deal with the Amsterdam housing shortage, however, nowadays they are still in high demand.
